

Preshow Tour

Meet the performers and crew before the show begins

The preshow tour offers a chance to meet the actors, musician, and backstage crew before the sensory relaxed performance to learn more about the show you are about to see.

The backstage crew will begin by discussing and demonstrating some of the technical elements of the show, such as onstage lighting changes, set movement, and special effects. The musician will demonstrate the instruments and the sound levels. The actors will introduce themselves and their characters, and will explain key moments in the show, such as strongly emotional moments, fast costume changes, and stunts. The audience can ask the actors, musician, and crew questions about the performance if there is time before the show.

The preshow tour will begin 15-20 minutes before the sensory relaxed performance. The tour is casual- you can come in at the start and attend the whole tour, or you can drop in and out as you please. The tour will be in the theatre. The audience can sit in their allocated seats, on the comfy seating, or stand, while the actors, musician, and crew are onstage or in their show positions (for example, the musician may be set up in the corner to the left of the stage).

The preshow tour is optional. If you'd like to keep all of the show elements a surprise, or would simply like to explore outside until the show begins, you do not need to attend the preshow tour. The ushers will let you know after the tour finishes when it's time to come into the theatre for the show to begin.
